History of the Silver Fern

The Silver Fern is a long-standing and respected symbol of New Zealand. Since the late 19th century, it has been proudly worn by sports teams and soldiers and used to represent our country globally. Māori used the fern's silver underside to navigate by moonlight, illuminating their path through the forest.

Today, the Silver Fern continues to guide us, just as it has for over 150 years. Supported by the New Zealand Government, key businesses, Tourism New Zealand, and New Zealand Trade and Enterprise, the FernMark is a valued symbol of our country. It represents New Zealand globally and attracts international students to our shores.

WATCH

WHAT IS PLP?

PLP curriculum belongs to UP Education; it does not belong to the New Zealand Ministry of Education, unlike a secondary school. So we can design a curriculum that meets the students' needs individually and as a class and in small groups.

We can adapt the curriculum quickly to raise expectations or to meet expectations of the students. We can also offer subjects that are not available in New Zealand secondary schools.
